EDITORS' MESSAGE

Fellow Classmates:

As co-editors of the Gothic, we take pride and pleasure in presenting to you this fortieth edition. We should like to extend our greatest thanks to Mr. Gosnell, our advisor, without whose help this book would not be possible. We should also like to thank all the students and teachers who helped, no matter how small their parts, in the production of this book.

This yearbook tells in pictures and words the story of your days at Brighton High. This book was made for you. Read it, enjoy it, laugh about it, cry about it, save it. It is yours. It will always be yours!

HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

MR. M. HENRY McINERNEY

Many individuals today have a distorted conception concerning the principle of respect. Some believe that respect has a tendency to belittle the individuality of the person who displays it; others think it indicates a characteristic of weakness. Nothing can be further from the truth.

A perusal of the Ten Commandments of the Lord shows that respect is an underlying principle: respect for parents; respect for one's neighbor; and, of course respect for the Lord. We might add that when respect is shown toward others, we actually show respect for ourselves. We recognize that as intelligent, law-abiding persons, we must have self-respect. Without it, how can we have peace of mind.

As our seniors go forth into a troubled world, they will face problems—personal and otherwise. Some of these problems may be more easily solved if each individual starts with the premise that he will show proper respect for authority, for other persons, and for himself as a creature of God, Whose blessings I wish for each of you in abundance.

CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1965, the eager faces of new students from several different schools converged on Brighton High School—the incoming sophomore class. At first, most of us were overwhelmed by the size of our new school. As our sophomore year progressed, we made discoveries about it, met new friends, and made the necessary adjustments. We had a football team which gave us many thrilling moments. We watched a hockey team almost become the state champions. Our school magazine, The Towers, received recognition by the local papers. Our sophomore year, a year of discovery, quickly came to an end.

A year had passed since we had entered and we were juniors. There was the usual confusion at the beginning of the year. Our junior year proceeded rapidly with the seniors electing their class officers and our Thanksgiving break. Then tragedy struck in December, 1966. Our beloved teacher Mr. Barry was taken from our midst by a heart attack.

When we returned from Christmas vacation we found that Brighton High School had added to its image a public address system with its ever delightful vagaries. We also found that students would become more physically fit because of the new exercises. But there was someone missing on the third floor. Doc Moore, whose history classes will never be duplicated, had retired.

We almost made it to the state championship with our hockey team again. Mr. Casey's unforgettable speech given at the Memorial Day assembly stirred us. The junior year came to a close when we elected our cheerleaders and made final preparations for our senior year.

In the fall, we returned as seniors. The year began at a fast pace. There were try-outs for the football team, class pictures to be exchanged, work to be done on The Gothic and The Towers. Then came class elections; first, nominations speeches were given by candidates; preliminary elections were held; then the final votes were counted. We chose Bruce Walker as president, Patricia Baia as vice-president, Carol Hayward as treasurer, and Carol Hector as secretary.

No sooner had we completed this than there were the preparations for the Christmas Assembly, under the guidance of Mrs. Garvey, Miss Brennan, Miss Cavanaugh, and Mr. Conlon. Our Christmas Assembly differed from the ones in the past, by adding beloved Christmas features to the Biblical pageant. We will never forget it. When we returned from our Christmas vacation, we busied ourselves working on The Gothic and The Towers and in sports activities: basketball, hockey, and track. Spring came upon us quickly. During spring vacation several of us went on a Washington sight-seeing tour. When we returned, there were preparations to be made for Class Night, the Senior Prom, and finally Graduation.

Now, as we look back on our three years at Brighton High School each of us will recall certain events and certain people who were crucial for his development. And our years at Brighton High School have prepared all of us to face the complex world of today. We would like to express our deepest gratitude to our Headmaster, teachers, and parents, who through their efforts, understanding, and influence, made our years here so happy and productive. Our memories of Brighton High School, our teachers, and our Headmaster have left an indelible mark on us.

IN MEMORY OF

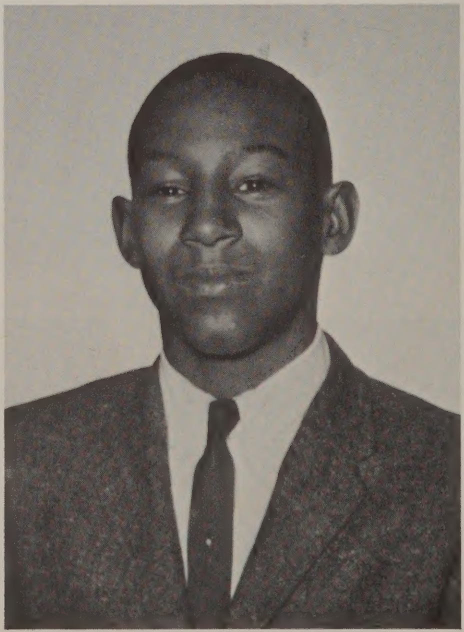
RACHELLE BRIGUGLIO

Rachelle Briguglio attended Brighton High School for approximately two years, maintaining honor grades in spite of illness. She was a talented art student with plans for attending art school after graduation. Rachelle's outside activity consisted of the Rainbow Girls. She enjoyed her free time as best she could. In school she was loved by her friends and teachers. Brighton High and its students express their deepest sorrow over the loss of one of our finest students, but in our own sure knowledge that her life, though short, was an influence for good.

Walter Snowden, of the class of '68, was a member of Brighton's cooperative course. He was well liked by all his classmates and his teachers. Walter, a graduate of Campbell Junior High, entered Brighton in September, 1965. His hobbies were working on cars and listening to records, In his years at Brighton, he maintained a successful grade average and, more important, a fine reputation. Our loss may not be expressed in words. We are glad we knew him.



WALTER SNOWDEN

FACULTY

MR. WILLIAM DURANTE is now the Head of the Math Department at Boston Latin School.

MISS ANITA MARKUNAS went to Girls' Latin School where she is teaching English.

Now at the Jeremiah Burke High School is MR. JOHN CRAVEN who is a Guidance Counselor.

MR. JOSEPH CASEY, whom we were all very fond of, has moved to better things than lockers, for he is the Head of the English Department at Dorchester High School.

MISS DEBORAH SHULMAN has said "I do," and changed her name to Mrs. Allen Greenberg. She is teaching in Rhode Island.

REMEMBER

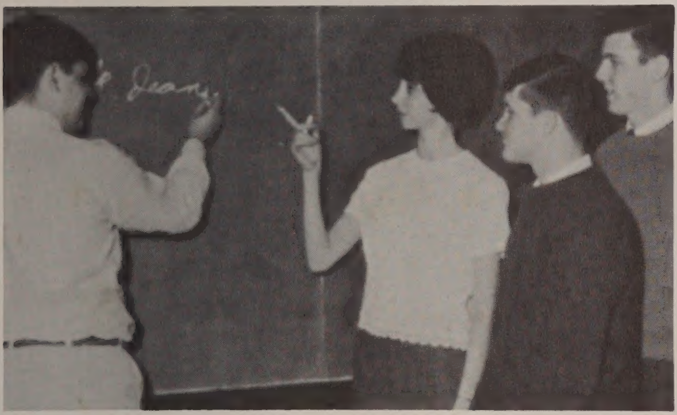
When we returned to school this fall, we knew that one of our most admired teachers, Mrs. Grace Johnson, had left to become a science teacher at a boys' preparatory school on Cape Cod. Mrs. Johnson had taught biology and physical science at Brighton High School for four years. An alumna of B.H.S., she received her Master's degree from Boston State College. Mrs. Johnson was the adviser of the Gothic staff. At the end of last year, she helped this year's Gothic staff begin their work, for which we are extremely grateful. To many of us she was more than a teacher—she was a friend.

MRS. GRACE JOHNSON, former advisor to the Gothic, is teaching at a boys' prep school on Cape Cod.

Appomattox

Presently retired and enjoying life is DR. HENRY MOORE. (Doc!)



MISS SHIRLEY MANN has joined the ranks of the married. Her name is now Mrs. George Galkin, and she is teaching in Connecticut.

JURICA BIOLOGY
By Hilary S. Jurica

Teaching at King Philip Regional High School is MR. THOMAS LERRA.

MR. DAVID WILSON is working on his Master's degree at Pratt Institute in New York. Good luck on your thesis, Mr. Wilson.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. John O'Brien assumed the duties of Assistant Headmaster in September, 1964. A graduate of Boston College and Boston College Graduate School, he taught successively at the Lewis School, Columbia University, and the Girls' Latin School. He has been a lecturer in engineering, mathematics, and calculus at Northeastern University since 1946.

MR. JOHN O'BRIEN, Assistant Headmaster

MR. WILLIAM GILLIGAN, MISS GRACE McCALL, MISS MILDRED FITZGERALD, Guidance Counselors

MRS. DONAHUE and MRS. DOLAN, Our Secretaries

MRS. MARY LARKIN, Cooperative Course Secretary

MISS TERESA CALLAGHAN, Brighton High's Devoted Librarian

MISS MABELLE O'NEIL, School Nurse

ART

Smocks . . . brushes . . . Van Gogh . . . Van Come? Miss Claire E. Brennan, head of the Art Department and a graduate of Massachusetts College of Art, is a volunteer worker with retarded children. Besides that, she plays the guitar and a "fairly good hand of bridge." Does Miss Beverly Morse, who earned an A.B. and M.A., have the cleanest homeroom in B.H.S.? Ask her art students! That's the way the paint brush moves.

MISS CLAIRE BRENNAN, Art

MISS BEVERLY MORSE, Art

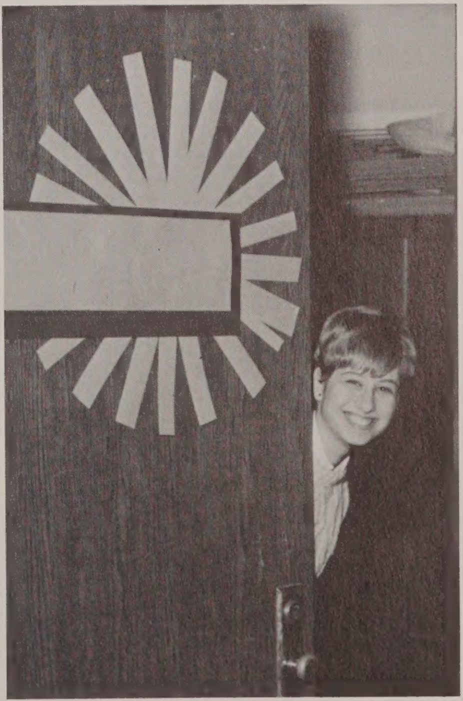
It's lovely, but what is it?

All right class, who threw that paint brush?



What's going on back there, Rita?

BUSINESS

Shorthand . . . bookkeeping . . . typing. Brighton High's Business Department is headed by Mr. Joseph Feely. The Student Council advisor, Mrs. Helen Rowell, teaches typing—"Keep your eyes on the chart." Mr. Thomas Sennott, who graduated magna cum laude (with very good marks) from B.C., works on Data Processing. Every year Mrs. Catherine Boyle, who holds a B.S. and M.B.A., sends out half of her students to try their hand at merchandising. Mrs. Ann Donovan, a graduate of Regis College, teaches office practice. Another Boston College graduate is Mr. John McCormick, who enjoys sailing.

Mrs. Florence Des Autels, a Boston University graduate, teaches shorthand. A new addition to the Business Department is Miss Harriet Kritzer. Another Boston University graduate is Mrs. Mary Campbell. Miss Mary Moynahan, a Salem State graduate, finds enjoyment in skiing. Sports and photography hold the interest of Mr. David F. Sheehan. Mr. Paul McDevitt left B.H.S. in December for a position on the School Committee. Mr. Paul Ellison, who took his place, enjoys working with young people.

MR. JOSEPH FEELY, Business Law, Bookkeeping

MR. JOHN McCORMICK, Business Law, Bookkeeping

MRS. HELEN ROWELL, Typing, Shorthand

MR. THOMAS SENNOTT, Bookkeeping, Typing

MISS MARY MOYNIHAN, Typing, Office Practice, History

MR. PAUL McDEVITT, now with the Boston School Committee

MR. PAUL ELLISON, Typing, Office Practice

MR. DAVID SHEEHAN, Economic Geography, U.S. History

MRS. MARY CAMPBELL, Bookkeeping

MRS. FLORENCE DES AUTELS, Shorthand, Typing, Office Practice

MISS HARRIET KRITZER, Shorthand, Typing

MRS. ANNE DONOVAN, Typing, Office Practice

COOPERATIVE

Motors . . . engines . . . screwdrivers . . . bolts . . . nuts. Mr. Alexander Passaretti, who holds a master's degree from Boston State, is the Department Coordinator. Mr. Warren Burnham is the Placement Director. (He puts boys in their place.) Mr. George Manfra, who holds a B.S. and a M.Ed., teaches science. In 122 Mr. Albert Introini, who enjoys trailer camping at Cape Cod, teaches mechanical drawing. Transmission and auto mechanics are taught by Mr. Michael Lescarbeau. The man "in charge" of the garage is Mr. James McNamee. Also in the garage, Mr. Walter McKillop teaches lubrication.

MR. WARREN BURNHAM, Placement Director
MR. ALEXANDER PASSARETTI, Cooperative Automotive Coordinator

That's where the oil drips . . . . . .

It's still on wrong!

MR. ANGUSTINE MESSURI, Automotive Instructor
MR. GEORGE NAJARIAN, Head of Auto Engine Department
MR. WALTER McKILLOP, Shop Instructor
MR. DOMINIC BRUNO, Automotive Instructor

COURSE

Six of our cooperative teachers attended Fitchburg State College. Mr. Dominic Bruno, who teaches auto mechanics, enjoys hunting and fishing. Another auto mechanics teacher, Mr. George Najarian, belongs to the Knights of Columbus (the original Sir Lancelot.) If you go to a horse show, you may find Mr. Joseph Cicciu there. He teaches the boys about automotive engines. An intelligent fellow, Mr. Ralph Vozella teaches five subjects: auto mechanics, math, science, shop process, and driver education. Mr. Augustino Messuri is another auto mechanics teacher. To end this Department, we have the go-cart builder, Mr. Dominic F. Rantuccio.

One more time and you've had it!

MR. ALBERT INTROINI, Drafting Teacher

MR. GEORGE MANFRA, Science

ENGLISH

Mr. Fred Spracklin, head of our English Department, is in the United States Army Reserve. "Hup to it, students!" After earning his M.Ed., Mr. James O'Brien has found traveling enjoyable. Will Miss Ruth Thompson, an Emmanuel graduate, ever get her theater club? Mrs. Barbara Bates is a Barnard graduate. Mrs. Frances Caraber, a graduate of Columbia College in South Carolina, left Southern fried chicken for Boston beans! A graduate of Wheaton College, Mrs. Phyllis Patterson is a counselor in a foster home for boys. Miss Margaret Kurz is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. A former captain of the tennis team at the University of Massachusetts is Mr. Michael Rose

In December, Miss Helen O'Leary, an outstanding member of our faculty, left Brighton High School for a well-earned sabbatical. Miss Regina Kandraska, who was with Miss O'Leary in 209, received her degree from Boston State College. Welcome back, Miss Holland!

MR. FRED SPRACKLIN, Head of the English Department

HISTORY

Open Door Policy . . . Fifty-four Forty or Fight . . . Tippecanoe and Tyler too. If you see an intelligent-looking man with the following degrees—A.B., M.Ed., and C.A.G.S.—you can be sure that he is Mr. Charles Avery, head of the History Department.

Mr. William Quinn is giving out the home lesson: "Answer questions 1-923, and tomorrow your notebooks are due." (We wonder if he had this much homework while earning his M.Ed. at Boston State.) Mrs. Elise Garvey, another graduate of Boston State, has traveled throughout Canada and Europe. Did you know that Mr. Joseph Flaherty, a third Boston State graduate, earned his B.S.Ed. and C.A.G.S. by proving he was related to Columbus? (Irish and Italian?).

It's not surprising that Miss Helen Maroun has little free time with all her activities: music, dancing, painting, and sports. To complete our History Department, we have Mr. Bernard O'Rourke, a graduate of St. Francis College, to teach the Cooperative Course.

MR. CHARLES AVERY, Head of the History Department, U.S. History, Problems of Democracy, American Government

MR. WILLIAM QUINN, U.S. History

MRS. ELISE GARVEY, U.S. History, Modern European History, World History

LANGUAGE

Un, deux, trois, cuatro, cinco, seis, septem, octo, novem. We wonder if Miss Elizabeth Pelletier, head of our Language Department and a Radcliffe graduate, knows what this means: "Pas de lieu rhone que nous."*

Miss Madeleine Maguire, a Boston State graduate, can be found in 304 any time of day with a copy of El Camino Real in her hands.

Hic, haec, hoc, huius throughout . . . "Mr. Gosnell, in what case is throughout?" Our Latin teacher earned his M.A. at Rutgers University.

The Pennsylvania Dutch are very fluent in languages. Right, Miss Kathleen Cavanaugh, French, Spanish, and English teacher!?

Two new French teachers are Mrs. Jacqueline Green and Miss Louise Burke. Miss Burke is a graduate of Trinity College in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Green attributes her slim figure to skating. This is our Language Department.

*Paddle your own canoe.

MATHEMATICS

Equation . . . identities . . . algebra . . . D=RT . . . $\frac{-b \pm \sqrt{b^2-4ac}}{2a}$

Mr. Robert Collins, head of the Math Department, attended Boston College and Boston State. His hobby is the history of math. He has a lively interest in new science information. When Miss Elizabeth Tobin, who has earned her M.A., isn't busy teaching math, she can be found playing contract bridge.

Mr. Robert F. McCarthy, asked about his interests, answered, "No hobbies, just habits." He attended the University of Massachusetts and has earned his B.S. and M.Ed. He also works on Data Processing. Mr. John Doherty is a Harvard graduate. Besides teaching math he has a history class. Does Miss Patricia Mullin, who is an avid sports fan, calculate the plays of our teams? This is all from the Math Department computer.

MR. ROBERT COLLINS, Head of Math Department, Geometry, Algebra, Math V, Trigonometry

Are they that bad, Miss Tobin?

MISS PATRICIA MULLIN, Basic Mathematics, Plane Geometry

MR. JOHN DOHERTY, Math, History

MR. ROBERT McCARTHY, Trigonometry, Algebra II, Geometry

MISS ELIZABETH TOBIN, Geometry, Algebra, Trigonometry

Midget math teachers? They're both five feet tall.

SCIENCE

Test tubes . . . chemicals . . . acids . . . salts . . . pepper . . . pepper?! Mr. Ralph E. Wellings is head of the Science Department and a graduate of Boston College and Boston State and has the degrees of B.S., A.B., M.A., and M.Ed. Why is pepper included? Maybe Miss Eleanor Nelson, a Jackson College graduate and a former microbiologist with the Massachusetts Department of Health, knows . . .

"Do we have to wear these goggles, Mr. Healey?"

"Yes, we always wore them at Boston College."

Mr. Reddy, a biology teacher, also works on data processing.

It has been rumored around the school that Mrs. Eufrazia Hamadeh and Miss Janice Hurley, both with the degree of A.B., discuss bryophytes and such during lunch. Miss Janice Hurley attended Boston State College and Mrs. Eufrazia Hamadeh attended the University of Florence in Italy.

That's our Science Department!!!

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Squat thrusts . . . push ups . . . basketball . . . bone structure. Mr. Thomas Carty, in addition to coaching our teams, improves the physical fitness of our boys. He graduated from Boston University.

Mrs. Gloria Pope—"Inspection tomorrow!"—is a graduate of Howard University in Washington, D.C. Our other girls' gym teacher is Miss Catherine Blagdon, a graduate of the Boston Bouvé at Boston University.

Our girls' health teacher is Mrs. Josephine Moynihan, who has a B.S. Colonel William Sullivan teaches health to the boys.

HOME ECONOMICS

Pins . . . needles . . . sugar . . . spice . . . everything nice. A graduate of Michigan State, Mrs. Lois Woods earned her Master's degree at Simmons College. Mrs. Diane Campbell teaches foods. Among her interests are swimming, sewing, and writing. Around Christmas time she makes delicious green cookies. A home economics course prepares girls to fill their roles as proficient homemakers in today's society.

CLASS OFFICERS OF ’68

As we approach graduation day, the pinnacle of our high school career, it is appropriate that we realize why we are formally honored by our family, friends, and teachers on this occasion, for what we have achieved and what is expected of us. Looking back on the three years that most of us have spent at B.H.S., we have a certain integrity and pride.

As mystified sophomores, we entered the immense building which we were to occupy for the next three years. As juniors, we felt more secure, knowing that we had survived, and were halfway to graduation. Now we have achieved the status of seniors and are about to graduate from the Castle on the Hill. Armed with the knowledge we have built up year by year, we hope to establish ourselves as worthy citizens of our communities.

From our memorable last gatherings, we shall go our separate ways: some to business, some to the Armed Forces, and others to institutions of higher education.

We are about to enter into a world that is changing every day. It has its problems: war crises, teenage rebellion, and resistance to the draft. If the United States is to remain true to itself, we must have stronger co-operation from the present generation.

The world, among other things, echoes to push-and-pull politics. Some of those involved in the political arena seek to fill our minds with extravagant ideas. If we are to maintain a steady course and a balanced view, we must be on guard against extremists. Moreover, scattered corruption must not make us blind to the good, for much has been achieved by our system.

No political influence, however, should play too strong a role in our total life. We are free Americans, very close to the age of complete citizenship. Remember, we are stepping into a new life necessarily burdened by political demands and responsibilities. But we have responsibilities, also, to family, friends, college, job, and most of all to ourselves and our own intellectual and personal growth.

LIFE

Life is like a short dream,
  That many people pass through,
Only half realizing, half seeing,
  Many of its true joys and virtues.
In order to visualize life
  In its actual form, one must realize
That learning has higher elevations
  Than merely poring through a book–
That understanding each literary treasure
  Builds a stair of knowledge for each tread.
Each must find a goal and reach eagerly for it,
  Provided it is made of strong fibers.
He must endeavor to persist in his
  Ambitions even though he may be.
Haunted on all sides by temptation.
  He must be optimistic enough to see
The brighter side of a darkened day.
  For life is not given to us as a
Flirtatious game, but rather as an Opportunity to fulfill certain
Individual missions;
  To serve, as best we are
Mentally and physically able,
  The Lord, in whom our existence began.
In this way, will our lives be
  Wholesome and meaningful,
And not as a short dream.

Class Oration

Now that we are graduating, we are all probably asking ourselves what all these years in school have meant. Why did we stay in classrooms six hours a day, five days a week? The studying, the cramming, the frustrations–were they all we came for? There were other reasons, too.

Learning was our purpose, but this meant more than studying books. We also came to school to learn about each other. Weren't we ignorant of life? Didn't we have unrealistic ideas about the world? Our thoughts were childish and naive because we hadn't been exposed enough to the outside world. We were used to the small contained world of our family and group. We didn't have responsibilities. These were taken care of by our parents. Our needs were small. We were content.

When we were placed in high school, we felt naked. We didn't have the old security that we had found as children, so we had to seek a new security. This is how we found friends.

We began by first impressions. Did people act like us? Did we feel we could identify ourselves with them? Did they talk like us? We sorted out the ones with ideas and interests similar to ours. They became our close friends. They gave us a feeling of security. We did a lot of talking with these new friends. We shared ideas and expanded our thoughts through them. We enjoyed them because they were so much like us.

But what about the people who had other views? If they appeared different, they must have thought differently. Many did. When we began to talk to this wider group, changes came about in many of our opinions–about people and about life.

With our first friends, we had still been in a confined and limited world. Our thinking didn't involve outside influences. There weren't many contradictions to our train of thought. Reasoning moved easily along familiar channels. But when we found different outlooks–outlooks we hadn't thought of–these either changed our thinking or brought up contradictions. Our minds were becoming more mature.

Because our minds were broadening, we could no longer accept absolute truths. We became less narrow. We knew that if we wanted to evolve into better people, to become adults, we needed well-balanced minds that could weigh facts and reach sensible conclusions. Doesn't peaceful co-existence with other people, the world over, depend on balanced minds that aren't turned to biased thinking by hate or greed? To live in harmony with others for the benefit of all depends on co-operation on all sides.

And progress for the better is natural in the life cycle of the human being. From the simple beginnings millions of years ago, life has been evolving into a higher form, one better suited to the environment. And man is able to change his environment. He forms it. He determines whether it is good or bad for everyone.

Now as we go out into the world, the responsibility for ourselves and for our environment becomes ours. If the environment doesn't meet the needs of people, shouldn't we try to change it for the benefit of all? If we have worked honestly, we will have the proper tools. We will have the knowledge gained from our teachers and our friends, and unbiased minds with which to use this knowledge. We can't all be in a position to make drastic changes. But we can all have a subtle personal influence.

People serve as models for other people. We are all, in a sense, on display. While we may be criticized, we are also imitated. If we present a narrow or mean picture of ourselves to others, isn't it possible that people may adopt our faulty attitudes and act the same way? If so, we will be defeating ourselves because life conditions will become harder for all of us.

The breadth and understanding we have gained from our teachers and fellow students will serve us in good stead in listening and learning further. For it is a part of democracy that all sides have a voice. The minority has a right to be heard. It has a right to protest. But motives must be carefully examined. Are they sincere: Will the public be truly benefited. If you want to be heard, proceed in a responsible way. Beware of irresponsible people. Never become part of a mob. Each must find his own kind of truth, but in the right way.

Differences of opinion, protests, show that there is diversity of thought. From diversity comes all progress. Many people fear clashes of opinion, the contest in ideas. Yet the competition in democracy develops our minds and keeps us from becoming lethargic and passive. From it comes all our technology, all our comforts. Through it we must meet our greatest challenge–finding world peace.

There is something for each of us to do. Earth-shaking or not, if it will help, do it. If we know we have unused capacities but let them lie dormant, we will exist, but we won't really be living. If we feel an impulse to change something and think about it, but are too lazy to act, we may feel we are just passive. Actually, we will slowly be eating away at ourselves.

When we know about something wrong that needs correction or see something promising that can be guided and nursed into a benefit for the community, we should act. We will get a feeling of accomplishment. Other people will want to associate with us and enjoy our friendship. We will be happy.

To each of us his own way and his own truth. I hope I have raised some questions. I know you are philosophizing on your own and trying to find your own meanings as I am. Look earnestly. The future belongs to you and me.

William Flamburis

CLASS WILL

We, the class of 1968, being of sound body and mind (?), willingly leave. But before we do, we will the following will:

To Mr. McInerney we leave our thanks for his guidance and unfailing solicitude for our earnest endeavors.

To Mr. O'Brien we bequeath a kit of spare parts for the P.A. system.

To the teachers we leave everything we taught them, and our sincere thanks for all that they taught us.

To the Juniors we leave the honor of following in our footsteps as the Seniors of Brighton High.

To the Sophomores we leave congratulations of no longer being Sophomores.

Jeffrey Brooks, Julie Gould, Anny Rozenberg, and Karen Solov, bequeath to Miss Kandraska four intelligent and persevering students to work on next year's will.

Dave Tatten bequeaths to Linda Zide an everlasting hello.

Casandra Duarte leaves Mr. Gosnell lifetime members for the 2:45 club in 302.

Michael Marley bequeaths to Mr. Carty an "Impossible Dream" baseball team.

Robert Kelley bequeaths to Mr. Vozzella and Mr. Manfra all his absentee notes.

Michael McCarthy wills Maureen McPherson all his English books, including the wonderful classic, "Hamlet."

Janet Murphy bequeaths to Miss Thompson all the English literature the class had to read during this year.

Karen Lassiter leaves Miss Tobin all the homelessons she didn't pass in and all the tests she failed.

Maureen McPherson bequeaths to Mr. O'Brien her Hamlet study master.

Betsy Polatin leaves Mr. Healey a book of corny jokes and an Austin Healey.

Paula Tirrell wills Mrs. Rowell all her beloved shorthand notebooks.

Paulette Penchuck leaves Miss Nelson her body for Advanced Biology lab.

A gold bust of Shakespeare is Joan Tammick's bequest to Miss Thompson.

Donna Black bequeaths to all future Brighton High School students the right to roll down the icy hill in the coming winters.

Edward Dombrowski bequeaths to Mr. Wellings a blank notebook for his jokes.

Anonymous bequeaths to Miss Brennan a box of mint chocolates. (Which they ate.)

Mary Allen leaves Miss Maguire the magic wand of Happiness and Long Life.

Alvin Pope bequeaths to the cafeteria an electric vegetable cutter.

Leo Seletsky bequeaths to Mrs. Boyle a very, very small book containing names of all the people she has ever passed.

Carolyn Pickman wills Linda Mason a new camera with a roll of colored film and a mouthful of sand.

Linda Byrne bequeaths to Mr. Spracklin a box of doughnuts to eat with his tea.

Carol Hayward bequeaths to Mr. O'Brien of 209 all the blackboards she ever washed for him in Room 118, (between 25-50).

Anny Rozenberg leaves Mr. O'Brien two competent editors for next year's Towers and a whole staff of perfect storywriters.

Anonymous leaves Mr. Gosnell a Gothic staff that won't have him running all over school.

Anonymous bequeaths to Mr. Healey one Phil Harris song.

Cheryl Wayne wills Mr. Spracklin a long-playing recording of "Fools Rush In."

David Mayo leaves Mr. Healey a new chemistry lab.

Ellen Lewis bequeaths to Miss Tobin a box of new erasers.

Steve Sakowich bequeaths to Miss Morse his self portrait.

Anonymous leaves Mme. Pelletier une nouvelle carte de la France.

Mercedes Fernandez bequeaths to Mrs. Rowell all her shorthand notebooks.

Anne Cronin leaves Miss O'Leary all of the English Grammar books in the school.

Julie Gould wills Miss Tobin all her personal notes.

Betty Blade gladly bequeaths to the next glee club pianist all her music.

Christine Meiggs bequeaths to Mr. McCormick all the dimes paid for chewing gum.

Rita Byrd leaves Mr. Feeley all her "A" test papers to trade in for a new car.

Helen Grealish leaves Mr. Avery a controlling interest in Pier 4 so that he may become wealthy and get out of the teaching profession.

Carolyn Lowre wills Mr. Avery all her absentee notes.

Amber Irwin bequeaths her shorthand notes of 130 words a minute to Mrs. Rowell.

Betsy Polatin (the silversmith) bequeaths to Brighton High her services to make the class ring next year.

Carolanne Glenn bequeaths her runny nylons to Mrs. DesAutels and all her unfinished transcripts to Mrs. Rowell.

Johanna Freeth leaves Mr. Spracklin 180 cups of tea. (That's Salada tea.)

Linda Tavares gladly bequeaths to all the girls the pleasure of getting from Gym to 320 on time.

Linda Zide leaves Karen Solov and Carolyn Pickman their friendship.

Ellen Lewis bequeaths to Miss Thompson a class full of bright and willing students.

Anonymous leaves Mr. Healey the use of his body to demonstrate the human torch.

Timothy Higgins eagerly bequeaths to Mr. Collins a lifetime supply of laryngitis.

Leora Miller leaves to Miss Thompson a whole class of "A" students.

Sharon Colebrooke leaves Miss Thompson a senior College English class that will pass every term.

Adrienne Andrews bequeaths to Miss Tobin a wide awake 7th period trig class.

Nancy Shaffet leaves Mr. Spracklin a new joke book and a flow-through tea bag.

Steve Ross bequeaths to future students an escalator to take them up and down the long hill.

Chucky Redman bequeaths to Mr. Carty a hockey team consisting of 3 Greg McLeods, 2 Gordie Grants, and 1 Billy Novak.

Florence Proctor leaves a pair of suspenders to Mr. McCormick.

John Garellis leaves the school Drano for every drain.

Phyllis Patuto bequeaths to Mrs. Bates a new General Electric heater for a warmer room next year.

Beverly Jones wills her dearly-beloved cheerleading sweaters to the two boys who have them.

Gloria Guthro leaves Mr. Healey one dishwasher for his chemistry lab.

Cheryl Joyce bequeaths to B.H.S. an interior decorator.

Muriel White bequeaths to Mr. Collins a much needed megaphone.

Carolyn Harris leaves Mr. Healey some new chemistry books.

A set of brand new shades for 302 is Karen Solov's bequest to Mr. Gosnell.

Barbara Nasti leaves Miss Tobin all her Wrigley gum-wrappers.

Anonymous leaves Mr. Wellings a book that he will write concerning the life story of a student in his class.

Gail Lewis bequeaths to Mr. Wellings ten World Book volumes containing a collection of his famous people.

Anne S. Wong bequeaths to Mr. Avery her critical comments.

Julie McNamara leaves Miss Tobin all the knives for scraping off the gum from the desks in 214.

Richard Kelly wills Gerry Grant the 30 cents he still owes him for lunch.

Reed Wilgoren bequeaths to Miss Morse a well deserved new ceiling in 324.

Tanya Hall bequeaths her politeness and a neat transcript for office practice to Mrs. DesAutels.

Ralphine Williams leaves a brand new Latin dictionary to Mr. Gosnell.

Louise Wright leaves Brighton High an electric stairway.

Mona Lacob wills Miss Tobin her wardrobe of mini skirts!

Betty Wong leaves Mr. Collins her "order" bell.

Charles Hayman leaves Mr. Cicciu a half-inch drive rachet and some tools. He needs them!

Stephanie Ellcock leaves Brighton High brighter hallways.

Margaret O'Donnel bequeaths to Mr. McCormick all her useless ball point pens–dry from outlining the chapters in Business Law.

Jerry Grant leaves Miss Maroun his overdue assignments, two old hockey sticks, and the stocks and bonds they never bought.

Dennis Morrill bequeaths to Mrs. Caraber a picture of himself, and congratulations on a job well-done in her first year with 212.

Bernadette Mount leaves Mrs. Boyle all her lunchroom demerits.

Vincent Miola bequeaths to Mr. Wellings a year long supply of pep pills to carry him through five more years of teaching.

Linda Rodriquez bequeaths to Brighton High School students, Yoga.

Bruce Crosby gladly bequeaths to Miss Thompson all her knowledge of English.

Marianne Sadberry wills all her tardy notes to Colonel Sullivan.

Jeff Brooks leaves to Mr. Collins "a trig class worse than ours."

Ralph Hickey bequeaths to Mr. Collins the trig mid-terms he didn't warn the class about.

Julie McNamara bequeaths to Mrs. Garvey all the movies she was unable to show her history classes.

Sandra Mitchner bequeaths to Mr. Avery, the Head of the History Department, a theory on class debates.

Rita Mazer bequeaths to Mrs. Garvey a movie projector that she can work herself.

Gary Jackson leaves Miss Thompson his failing grades in English.

Arlene Shapiro bequeaths to Mr. Healey a solid gold Bunsen Burner.

Kathy Shine and Lucy Paulino leaves Mrs. Rowell a full-course meal and two tickets to see "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner!"

Bruce Walker just leaves–gladly!

In addition to the discovery of many new wonder drugs, and the growth of new cities and industries an amazing feat will take place twenty-five years from now in the year 1993. There will be a space station 1,000 miles above the earth. It will be used as a space port and a place where astronomers, astronauts, and scientists study the problems of space. From here the spacemen will have great opportunities to study and discover more about the earth, the solar system, and interplanetary travel. The space station will tell us much about the weather, radio, and other forms of electronic communications; about cosmic rays, and their effects on our lives. During this great year, many of the seniors from Brighton High School, 1968, will glance up at the sky and say to their children, "I can remember when there was only one moon in the sky." Their children will look at them with astonishment and say, "Boy, are you old-fashioned!".

Many of our former classmates will not be old-fashioned since they will be contributing to these new developments.

Participating in the space scene is Delmeta Atherton. She is now getting ready for another space flight. Those who have made this trip possible are technicians and mechanics: Richie Heine, Bruce Crosby, Anthony Gorgano, Welton Bugg, Michael Diaferio, Wallace Clark, Carmen Antidormi, Stephen Cotter, Charles Wayman, Carl Gelormini, and Lawrence Cardarelli. Technicians Robert Tabb and John Cox find something wrong with the rocket. Doctors Rona Crystal and Robert Downs rush in to see if Delmeta is all right. She is, but rocket X-1968 must be rechecked carefully.—Better luck next time!

The President of the United States, Oliver Hemenway, is sitting comfortably in his White House office, munching an apple as usual and discussing the world affairs with Vice-President James Jones. The secretaries at the White House are: Jean Goon, Phyllis Patuto, Joanne Lewis, Judy Powell, Susan Clark, Stephanie Ellcock, and Anne Clifford.

Meanwhile back home there are quite a few happy little housewives preparing dinner for their loving husbands. They are: Paula Tirrell, Bonnie Malette, Patricia Flaherty, Betty Stewart, Delores Allen, Josephine Imbergamo, and Janice Fargo.

Mona Lacob and Carolyn Hightower are high-fashion models. June Stack is their hairdresser, Kathy Ryan is their seamstress, and Deborah West is fashion editor of the magazine for which the girls model. Jade Moy makes sure Mona and Carolyn eat properly. She is their dietician.—Watch those calories girls!

There go Richard Kelley and Steven Deleconio surfing along the coast of Hawaii. Hang ten guys! Want a Hawaiian punch?—Just ask for Yvonne Carter or Beverly Abrams. They are both keypunch operators. Our I.B.M. computer operators and programmers are: Maureen McPherson, Louise Wright, Vincent Miola, Dennis Merrill, Sam Freeman, Karen Lassiter, and Betty Stewart.

The girls with the most patience or one might say the most "patients" are Donna Black, Betty Wong, Karen Solov,

PROPHECY

Carolyn Harris, Ralphine Williams, Julie Gould, Ruby Cox, Linda Mason, and Adrienne Andrews. They are all skilled, hard working nurses. Could that be the reason for the full morgue?

Those whose career is devoted to teaching others are: Roberta Kempner, Arlene Shapiro, Anny Rozenberg, Arlene Fox, Joan Tammick, Irene Sydell, Rita Mazer, Valerie Bonds, Linda Zide, Charles Kidik, Dennis MacDonald, Lester Quan, Jean Reynolds, Brenda Edwards, and Gail Miles. All their students really enjoy school. Can you blame them!

Those who have developed their musical talents are: Betty Blade, professional organist; James Richmond, Frank DiCicco, David Haynesworth, and Stephen Farrell—popular musicians.

Anne Wong and Luciano Cherin are biochemists in a modern hospital. Jerry Grant, and Jeanne Culleton are lab technicians. In another part of the hospital Jacquie Bonner is having a quiet conversation with a parrot. No she's not a loony bird, she's a veterinarian! Botanist, Kathleen Santin, and zoologist Ralph Hickey, are also hard at work. Kay Glaspy and Leora Miller are psychologists.

Joseph Davis, sports broadcaster, announces that Rick Taylor, football star, has been given a sports award, along with Richard Kehoe, who has been voted "coach of the year" by his team. Jeffrey Brooks announces that Michael Marley has just received the title of undefeated middle weight champion of the world.

Linda Tavares discusses her problems as business administrator with her friends Bernadette Mount and Catherine Sweeting. Being social workers, they can understand the problems of others, only "two well".

Poor Muriel White also listens to problems and complaints. She is a guidance counselor in a large public high school.—Get those applications out, Muriel!

Reed Wilgoren's dream has finally come true. He has become a rich international playboy. Richard Heine is president of his own bank, thanks to Stephen Ross, who gave him a few tips on the stock market.

Mary Yee is an accountant for Kevin Butlers' business firm; Betsy Polatin is a famous silversmith who owns a large chain of jewelry shops.

As we all know, some of the most beautiful paintings the world has ever known are in the Louvre, in Paris, France. Beside the paintings by Leonardo DiVinci are several paintings by Gerado Leone. Nearby are paintings by Stephen Sakowich, Linda Rodriguez, and Debbie Garron.

Last, but not least, Cheryl Wayne and Sharon Colebrooke are interpreters for the United Nations.

Brighton High School was blessed with an ambitious group of seniors during the school year 1967-1968. These diligent students will attain their goals, since some are ingenious, some dexterous, others have a great amount of business acumen, but most important—they all have one thing in common—a genuine interest in becoming a success in their chosen fields.

The students at Brighton High School are a group of friendly, unselfish people who deserve nothing but the best.

ANNALS

Brighton High School—George Washington slept here! This statement isn't entirely true, for this school isn't quite that old. But George Washington did camp on this same hill just before he went to Cambridge to assume command of the Continental Army.

The first Brighton High School, in 1808, was the old church on the corner of Washington and Market streets. It was a combination classroom and town hall. The very first Brighton High School here on Academy Hill was built in 1841 by the people of Brighton, who realized the need for a school for more advanced students.

This first Brighton High was very different from the one we know today. There were two principals, Mr. John Ruggles and Miss Delia Gardner. Mr. Ruggles headed the boys' department on the lower floor of the Academy, while Miss Gardner took charge of the girls on the upper floor. Subjects taught included philosophy, astronomy, Latin, French, Italian, and mathematics.

Because of the increasing enrollment, a new Brighton High School was built in 1896. We know this building today as the William Howard Taft Junior High School. John G. Ryder, its headmaster, founded the first public school library in Boston at B.H.S. and started a school magazine, then called Imp. In 1930 the present Brighton High School was built on Academy Hill. It commands an impressive view of all of Boston, which students have enjoyed ever since.

In the last three years, the class of '68 has played its part in the long history of Brighton High. We have made wonderful, lasting friendships and had some glorious times. As graduates of Brighton High, we will look back on it with just a little nostalgia, as have all its alumni for over one hundred and fifty years.

COACHES

The Brighton High Eleven found themselves with a new head coach this season. Coach Bob McCarthy strove to instill a feeling of unity among the Tigers. His theory of football can be summed up in one word—class. He taught it in practice, on the field, and by his actions. A man used to success, he is a graduate of Boston English where he starred at football and was "All City" in hockey. Furthering his scholastic and athletic endeavors, he attended exclusive Lawrence Academy, then went on to the University of Notre Dame, Class of '58. After serving his country as a marine officer, he came to Brighton. We are glad he did.

Also this year Brighton gained the services of a talented new line coach, who in addition is head varsity basketball coach. Mr. Bill O'Brien comes to us from Northeastern where he was a star end and member of the 1962-undefeated Huskies. He played his schoolboy football at Christopher Columbus High School, where he also lettered in basketball and baseball. His fresh outlook on the sport, along with that of Mr. McCarthy, points toward a "New Era" in Brighton sports.

Coach Tom Carty is no stranger to Brighton's athletic program. Along with coaching our baseball and hockey teams, Mr. Carty, an experienced assistant, coached our junior varsity this season. As Brighton's Physical Education teacher, he can spot Brighton's potentials. Under his guidance we can expect to see many promising young "Tigers" finding starting roles on the squads next year.

Coach McCarthy paces the sidelines.

Hold it! Wait! O.K.! Now!

FOOTBALL

In the first game of the annual jamboree, Brighton bowed to Boston Trade, which was later to become District League champion, by the score 6 - 2. The Tiger's lone score came in the second period when Earl Garrett trapped Trade's quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

Brighton opened its regular season with a convincing 31 - 6 rout of Dorchester. Pacing the attack with 19 points was junior halfback, Bob Guidinis, who scored on runs of 13 and 14 yards, a 51 yard pass, and an extra point. Captain Bruce Walker returned a punt 86 yards for a touchdown. Sophomore Jim Gannon then swept by the left end for another touchdown. The Bears' only points came on an 18 yard pass.

The Tiger's second game was with the perennial contender-South Boston. In one of the hardest fought games of the year, Brighton lost a close one, 8 - 6. The defense played a fine game, as the score indicates, but it was Southies' offense that tipped the scales for them. Southie's lone score came in the second period when Marty Walsh swept through the middle for 41 yards. Brighton came out fighting in the second half, and with 2:40 left in the third period, senior end Vin Brown caught a 29 yard pass from Bob Guidinas for a touchdown, but Southie's defense stiffened, and the conversion attempt failed. Brighton's best game occurred against Charlestown on Columbus Day. With a superb team effort, Brighton overpowered the Townies, 27-0. The defense should be cited for its brilliant play in denying Charlestown any scoring opportunities. Bruce Walker led the scoring with sprints of 79 and 49 yards. Then Bob Downs lobbed a 42 yard scoring pass to Bob Guidinas. On the last scoring play of the game, Earl Garrett intercepted a screen pass and ran 40 yards to the end zone.

On the following week, the Black and Orange met the Blue and Blue of Boston English. The Tigers opened the scoring when Bob Guidinas intercepted an opposition pass and carried the ball 35 yards for the score. However, the relentless English attack ground out yard after yard and eventually scored three touchdowns. English 20-Brighton 7.

An over-confident Brighton team met Jamaica Plain the following week. Brighton was unexpectedly defeated by a score of 18-6. Brighton lit the board first on a 16 yard run by Bruce Walker, but long scoring runs and the pinpoint passing of Joe Wilson were too much for the Tigers to handle.

A short-handed Brighton team met East Boston in the sixth game. Although the defense played a tremendous game, the offense was unable to coordinate itself. Only one play decided the contest. This was a 60 yard scoring pass to East Boston's Mike Navarro. Late in the fourth quarter, a Brighton rally was killed when a long pass to the Eastie 6 was ruled fumbled. Eastie squeaked out a 6-0 victory.

Brighton's worst day came in the game against Hyde Park. Three times in the first quarter Hyde Park capitalized on the Tigers' mistakes as the Blue Stars tallied 20 points. Late in the second period a Brighton pass was intercepted and led to 6 points for Hyde Park. An inspired Brighton team took the field in the second half, and the Tigers outscored the Blue and Silver 8-6 on Bruce Walker's 2 yard run. However, the first half deficit was too much to surmount. The final score was Hyde Park 32 and Brighton 8.

In the final game of the season, Brighton overpowered archrival Roslindale. Bringing the home crowd to its feet, Earl Garrett returned the kickoff 86 yards for a touchdown. Later in the same period, Vinnie Brown fielded a Rosie punt and fought his way to the end zone. Roslindale scored its only touchdown in the closing minutes of the first half. Bruce Walker iced the game for the Tigers with a bruising 39 yard run in the third period. The final score was 19 to 6.

Brighton placed four members of its team on the All-District team and two of these made the All-Conference team. Named to the All-District team were David Mayo (defensive end), Rick Taylor (defensive tackle), Earl Garrett (defensive end), and Bruce Walker (fullback). The latter two were also named to the All-Conference team. The Boston Herald listed Rich Kehoe as Honorable Mention on the All-Scholastic team. The Boston Globe listed Earl Garrett and Bruce Walker for the same honor.

TRACK

The B.H.S. Track Team led by the first-year coach, Bob McCarthy, took to the Oval this year with high hopes. The team, however, suffered several disappointments: the loss of its captain, Alvin Pope, and a lack of team coordination as a result. Still, we did finish well in the District Finals. Two seniors, who contributed highly to Brighton's effort, were Jimmy Jones in the high jump and Mike Wilcox in the dash. Anchoring the weight events this year were senior weightlifter, Leo Seletsky, Class-A shot putter big Rick Taylor, and our football captain Rich Kehoe.

Wayne Kelly, a promising sophomore, leads the pack in a long distance race.

Howard Freeman takes the lead and keeps it all the way.

BASKETBALL

Head Coach O'Brien has good reason to be proud. Although his seniors did not have a winning season, they amassed more victories than in three previous years combined. This season's success is due mainly to the sharpshooting of guards Vinnie Brown and Bruce Crosby, the solid rebounding of Frank Jenkins and Dave Mayo (who pumped in 31 points against Rosie), and the playmaking of Captain Bruce Walker. Rotating with the regulars were valuable backup men Bob Trieger and Bob Downs. More bright seasons are ahead as our J.V.'s lost only one game.

HOCKEY

After a very successful 1967 season, Brighton High's hockey team took to the ice without the aid of many experienced players due to last year's graduation. Coach Tom Carty has led the hockey team for the past eight years and has had several District Championships to his credit. The Brighton High Six were led this year by Goalie Jerry Grant and his brother Gordie, an outstanding defenseman. Other seniors contributing to the hockey team this year were right wing Lucky Cherin, centers Steve Cotter and Chucky Redman, defenseman John Bryceland, and our team manager, Dave MacKay.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Since several people have made an important contribution to the production of our yearbook, the editors have designated this page as one of thanks for their indispensable aid:

To Mrs. Bates and Miss Thompson, who proofread so well and so amiably.

To Miss Kandraska and Mrs. Caraber, who were so patient in assisting us in the writing of the Will and Prophecy.

To Miss Brennan, whose artistic talent has left its mark on this book.

To Miss Pelletier, who worked so hard to secure the advertisements.

To Mr. Farnham, representative of Wm. J. Keller Inc., who guided us during our dark moments.

To Purdy Photographers, who took so very many pictures for us.

To Mr. Gosnell, our adviser, whose patience was inexhaustible, a very special thanks.

This book printed by VELVATONE, a special process of lithographic printing. Sole producers: Wm. J. Keller Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. No other printing firm is authorized to use the Velvatone method.
